

Elizabeth Montmagny
Exploring Contrasts
IS 3530

Sonnet

Today whilst gazing to the clear blue sky
I thought I saw an angel from above
Though I did naught but sit while she flew by
I felt her strength and shared with her my love

I hope that this is not the life you choose
But, as is truth, the message is not clear
I never for a moment want to lose
The memories both you and I hold dear

I wish you strength, now go and build your tower
But keep this token; cherish it each day
For if you don't succeed in finding power
I shall be waiting if you lose your way

Now lead the way with heart and strength and might
And bring your people thus into the light.